

Senate deal could be most significant climate bill yet

The $369 billion deal could sharply reduce carbon pollution and lower Americans' power bills. But climate experts said more needs to be done.

Virtual Visiting

You will be invited to join a randomly assigned breakout room of 4-5 people, to share with each other (8 minutes or ~2 minutes each)

It's a time to visit and chat. We suggest you start by having each person give your name, how you're involved with 350 Wisconsin and your answer to this question:

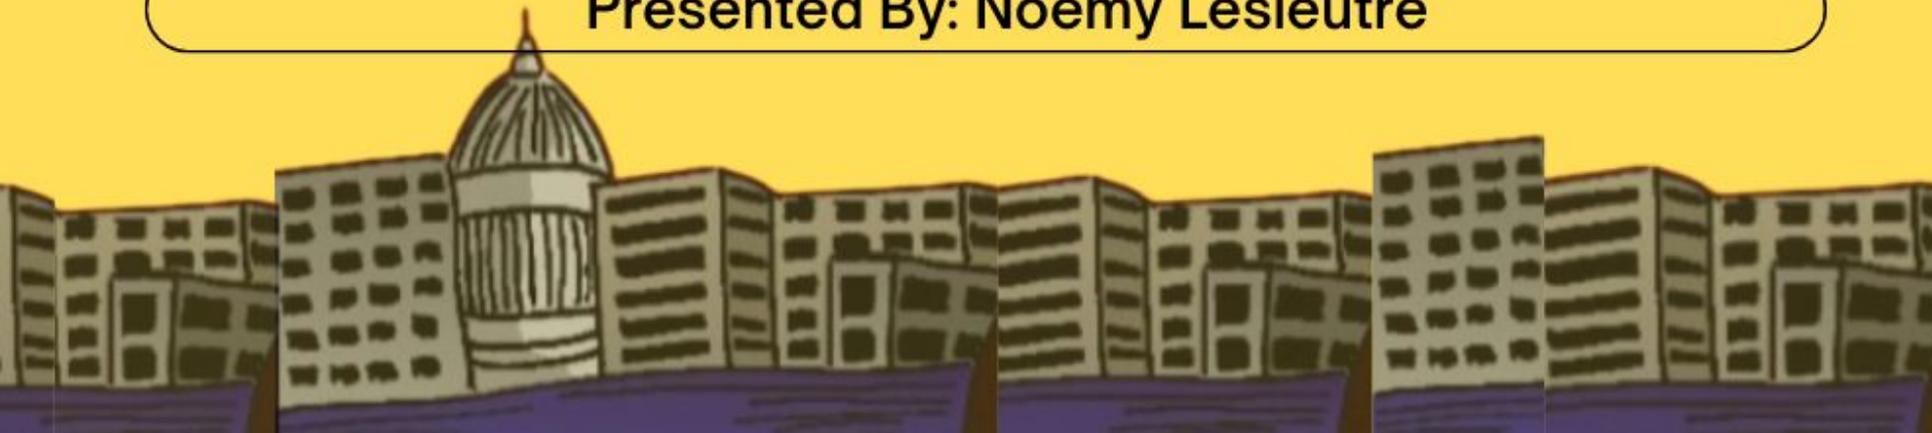

What is a place of natural beauty in Wisconsin that you treasure and would like to see enjoyed by future generations?

← → Q What have Madison youth climate orgs. done since climate strike of 2019?

Youth Working for Local Climate Solutions

The title is centered on a yellow background. There are four decorative pink butterfly icons: one on the left, one on the right, one above the word 'Local', and one above the word 'Solutions'.

Who we are and Who I Am!

"It is our responsibility to take care of our community"

2018 - Inspiration and Mission

Hitting close to home

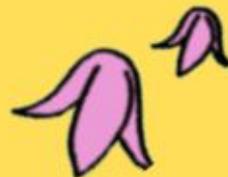

In 2018 one of my closest friends was impacted by flooding and my dad was diagnosed with cancer because of this we made a promise to help each other with eachothers challenges.

Finding a Project

In a program called Community Problem Solving we developed our first project, CCP. Creativity for Children Patients was an event to showcase art from children with a terminal illness. The project won at state in April 2019.

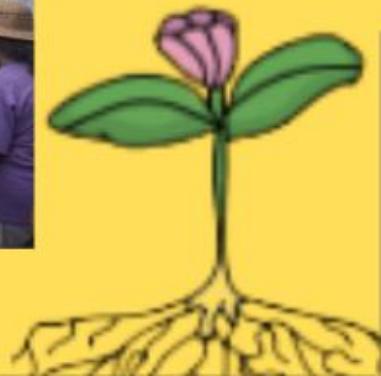

2019 - Building a Network

IPOS has over 6,000 contacts that we mainly got from flower fest 2020

2019 was the year of networking and contacting anyone and everyone
